CURRENT SERIAL RECORDS

Come with me and walk a way
Down along the garden path
And see the modest violet.
Breathe in the sweet fragrance
And remember your childhood.
You will think of your mother
For the violet is mother's own flower.

We grow only the choicest of the many types and varieties of violets--those outstanding for form, beauty and fragrance.

1. ROYAL ELK) (sun or shade) These three large
2. ROYAL ROBE) purple violets are so similar in
3. VICTORY) size and appearance we list them together. They are without question the largest and finest of the single violets in the world. They have large fragrant blossoms on long stout stems. A very prolific bloomer--ideal for corsages.

PLANTING INSTRUCTIONS

Violets like fertile, moist soil enriched with humus. It is good practice to mix one teaspoonful of fish meal into the soil for each plant. Frequent overhead watering is good for them. When your plants arrive, if they seem wilted, immerse them, tops and all, in water and let them soak a few hours before planting. If they seem fresh, just dip the roots in water and plant at once. If you have severe winters, mulch with coarse leaf mold or similar material.
